LogmeOnce Announces Password Manager Version 3.0 to Protect Identities

Users can protect their passwords confidently with LogmeOnce Zero-Knowledge Technology

WASHINGTON, D.C., October 25, 2014—LogmeOnce, the revolutionary new password security and management system, unveiled today the LogmeOnce Password Management Suite 3.0, an innovative security application designed to help consumers and businesses in their efforts to protect and manage their passwords.

"In today's environment, end users need help to reduce their risk of identity theft and hacks while protecting their online privacy," says Kevin Shahbazi, CEO of the hardware and software password management company. "LogmeOnce is filling a critical need, by bringing value directly to where people stand to lose their most important asset — their identity. We are helping end users protect and manage their passwords and security credentials, and we're making it easy for them."

As a "zero-knowledge" technology company, LogmeOnce does not know a user's encryption key or actual passwords. With LogmeOnce, you are the only one who has absolute knowledge of your actual password and encryption key — only you can decrypt your account. The following are some of the features included in the new version 3.0:

- Support across browsers, like Chrome, Firefox, Internet Explorer, and Safari.
- An increase in supported applications; over 4,400 websites are included.
- Two-part login to support banking industry requirements.
- A comprehensive Password Calculator with advanced features and a brand-new design.
- Flexibility in how apps are organized.
- Ability to customize the dashboard view, with 11 possibilities.
- Additional security settings in the LogMeOnce online portal.
