LogMeOnce Announces a Customizable User Interface with Version 5.6

Your interactive "LogMeOnce Home" is the center of your universe.

WASHINGTON, D.C., August 23, 2017—LogMeOnce, the distinctive market leader in passwordless authentication, unveiled today the LogMeOnce version 5.6, with an interactive, customizable and innovative user interface, to help improve productivity for all. The new version 5.6 puts you in control from a centralized dashboard called "LogMeOnce Home".

In addition to various enhancements for password management security platform, LogMeOnce new and user friendly interface includes a unique and interactive "Home" dashboard. With LogMeOnce, you get instant protection and instant access to your computer via your mobile device. LogMeOnce protects identities on Apple iOS, Android, Microsoft Windows, Mac OS, and Linux.

"Home is the collection of our most sought-after features, and we let you create and customize the view," says Kevin Shahbazi, CEO of LogMeOnce. "At anytime, click the Home icon to return to this centralized dashboard and launch a feature."

As a "zero-knowledge" technology company, LogMeOnce does not know a user's encryption key or actual passwords. With LogmeOnce, you are the only one who has absolute knowledge of your actual password and encryption key—only you can decrypt your account.
